

FOR TIMES WOMEN WHO WANT TO KNOW What Is Seen in The Shops

This column is not an advertising column, but is conducted by The Shopper to aid The Times' women readers who are interested in what the shops offer. Every item mentioned has been personally inspected by The Shopper and bargains pointed out are based on a carefully considered opinion of values. Information as to the identity of the stores referred to may be had by calling Main 5200 and asking for The Shopper.

BY THE SHOPPER.

I happened into a store on F street, near Thirteenth, this morning, and saw some very exquisite lace handbags. The lace mantle and shadow work patterns looked as dainty and intricate as a carefully made cobweb. These are intended to be used as a trimming for the chiffon waists that will be a part of every woman's wardrobe this fall and winter. They give that soft and vague effect to the diaphanous material that is so much sought after this season. The price was $2 and $2.50 a yard, but as very little of the lace is needed for trimming, it is not expensive at these prices.

The large black velvet hat will be more popular than ever this season. In a millinery store on F street, not far from Twelfth, there is a stunning large chapeau of this type fared back from the face, and trimmed with three long white uncurled ostrich feathers. The price was remarkably cheap—$10.

Another chic model in the same store was also of black velvet—a little round hat with a turned up brim all around. A bright little ball of feathers, in a decidedly new effect, adorned the left side. This hat was also marked $10.

For the woman who likes odd bits of queer jewelry, a store on the north side of F street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, is displaying some very pretty semi-precious topaz stud earrings. A chain of these stones, linked together with gold, with a hanging pendant, in shape of a cross makes a very attractive necklace. The price is $1.50.

In a Japanese store, near the corner of G and Fourteenth streets, there is a most attractive sale of sheer summer robes, embroidered by Philippine natives. The goods in the fine, hand-woven Pina cloth, and the embroidery is done with mercerized linen, which gives a remarkable silky luster to the work. An entire robe pattern containing enough for a gown and a separate waist, is marked from $30 to $35.

School boys and girls have first place devoted to their needs and fads in one of the F street stationery stores near Twelfth street. The boy who has a penchant for school and college posters could deck his room very easily with foot ball pictures as seen in the window of this store, marked 50 cents.

In a Pennsylvania avenue department store they are offering a lot of manufacturer's samples of rocking chairs for about half price. The comfortable chair known as the "mistle seat" rocker, in mahogany or golden oak finish, is selling for $2.50. It is exceptionally well made and finely finished.

There is a special sale of women's high shoes in a Seventh street shoe shop, near the corner of K street. One of the best known makes of shoes in calf, vicil kid or patent kid is selling for $5. The usual price is $5.50 and $6.15.

While it is a little early to think of furs, the woman who is wise will take advantage of the bargains that are being offered just now, instead of waiting for the coming of cold weather. In a store on Seventh street, near D there is a special sale of full length black pony coats, at $50. They have the new style collar, and are lined with "two season" broadcloth satin.

In a store near the corner of New York avenue and Seventh street I saw some very pretty Brussels rugs in room size for $10.50. They are all well selected patterns, among which are several Oriental designs, as well as many two-toned effects which are so desirable for libraries and dining rooms.

The woman who loves pretty dainty glassware will find much to interest her in a sale of cut glass which I noticed in a G street store this morning. Hand-dipped nappies for 25 cents and olive dishes at the same price were this store's offering.

Miss Sallie Agnes Harlow Is Married To Francis R. Weller in Alexandria

Ceremony Performed in St. Mary's Church at Noon Today.

St. Mary's Church, Alexandria, Va., was the scene of a pretty wedding at noon today when Miss Sallie Agnes Harlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Heister Harlow, of Alexandria, became the bride of Francis R. Weller, of Washington. The Rev. H. J. Cutler, pastor of the church, was the officiating clergyman.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Margaret Normoyle as maid of honor. Her bridal gown was a princess robe of point d'Alencon lace over ivory satin, veiled in chiffon, and she wore a tulle veil arranged with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore pink crepe meteor, and carried a cluster of Killarney roses.

M. A. Weller, of Washington, acted as his brother's best man.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, 411 Prince street, immediately after the ceremony, to which only the wedding party and the members of the two immediate families were invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Weller left later for an extended Southern wedding trip, and on their return will be at home after November 1 at the Burlington. Mr. Weller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Weller, of Seward square.

A pretty wedding took place last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Klein, when Miss Mamie Biekings and Henry H. Daniels were married by the Rev. Joseph McGee, of the Shrine of the Sacred Heart.

The house was effectively decorated for the occasion with palms and ferns, the ceremony taking place under an arch of pink roses in the bay window. The bride wore a handsome bridal gown of ivory satin, trimmed with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of orange blossoms in her hair, and she carried a shower of bride roses.

Miss Nellie Lawson, of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and wore white embroidery trimmed with lace, and carried pink roses. The maid of honor wore white and carried pink roses.

A small reception followed the ceremony, only relatives attending. Mr. and Mrs. Daniels will be at home after October 1, at 1414 C street southeast.

Miss Lawson and N. C. Wyeth Married.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Lawson, of Cincinnati, and Nathan C. Wyeth, of Washington, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at a cottage, near the bar harbor home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis. The Rev. James D. O'Brien, of the Bar Harbor Catholic Church, officiated.

William Calver, Lawson of Cincinnati, the bride's father, gave her in marriage. She was attended by her two sisters, Mrs. Thora D. Baker and Miss Marion Lawson, of Cincinnati.

The bride wore white satin and lace with a veil of tulle held in place with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. She also wore the bridegroom's gift, a chain of pearls with a diamond pendant.

Her attendants wore pale pink satin with lace hats and carried pink roses. Hugh B. Rowland acted as best man for Mr. Wyeth and the ushers were Walter D. Wilcox, and Franklin Ellis, of Washington.

A small reception followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Wyeth leaving shortly afterward for their wedding trip. They will come to Washington in the early autumn, and will make their future home here. Mr. Wyeth is a member of the Metropolitan and Chevy Chase Clubs.

Here's Simple Rules For Enjoying Health

The man or woman who eats only what is universally recognized as wholesome food and that not glutinously; who keeps regular hours and gets sufficient sleep; who sees to it that the water supply is ample and reasonably good and is properly employed for cleanliness; and that the lungs are adequately and constantly supplied with fresh air—that person will enjoy more than average good health.

The health will be above the average because to do all these simple and easy things, habitually and consistently, requires a higher quality of sober common sense and a greater aspiration toward real human decency than the average of mankind possesses. But the habit of acting with common sense and human decency may be cultivated. It is a mental and moral quality that strengthens with practice.

And the way to have good health is not to permit attention to be fixed upon such trivialities as house flies or mosquitoes or drinking cups as if incessant care about these were a panacea whose use is bound to secure health and happiness. They way to have good health is first to use just ordinary sense in eating, drinking, and sleeping; then, if possible, to keep a clean conscience; and, third, to elevate your thoughts a trifle above bedbugs and other vermin that haunt the nooks and crannies of the hypochondriac mind.

FOR LITTLE FOLK JUST BEFORE BEDTIME The Sandman's Stories

TEARFUL.

ONCE upon a time there was a little girl named Tearful, because she cried so often. If she could not have her own way she cried; if she could not have everything for which she wished she cried.

Her mother told her one day that she would melt away in tears if she cried so often. "You are like the boy who cried for the moon," she told her, "and if it had been given to him it would have made him happy, for what does a boy want the moon for? He wants one out of its proper place! And that is the way with you; half the things for which you cry would be of no use to you if you got them."

Tearful did not take warning or heed her mother's words of wisdom, and kept on crying the same.

One morning she was crying as she walked along to school because she wanted to stay at home, when she noticed a frog hopping along beside her.

"Why are you following me?" she asked, looking at him through her tears. "Because you will soon form a pond around you with your tears," replied the frog, "and I have always wanted a pond all to myself."

"Because you will soon form a pond around you with your tears," replied the frog, "and I have always wanted a pond all to myself."

"Go away, you horrid green frog," she said.

"No," replied the frog. "I shall soon have my pond now."

Tearful cried harder than ever then; she could not see, her tears fell so fast, and by and by she heard a splashing sound. She opened her eyes and saw water all around her.

She was on a small island in the middle of the pond, the frog hopped out of the pond, making a terrible grimace as he sat down beside her.

"I am so glad," said Tearful, "you have your pond, why don't you stay in it?"

"Alas!" replied the frog. "I have waited for something which I cannot use now that I have it. Your tears are salt and my pond which I have all by myself is so salt that I cannot enjoy it. If only your tears had been fresh I should have been a most fortunate fellow."

"You needn't stay if you do not like it," said Tearful, "and you needn't fault with my tears, either," she said, beginning to cry again.

"Stop!" cried the frog, hopping about excitedly. "you will have a flood if you keep on crying."

Tearful saw the water rising around her so she stopped a minute. "What shall I do," she asked. "I cannot swim, and I will die if I have to stay here."

The frog hopped up and down in front of her waving his front legs and telling her to hush. "If you would only stop crying," he said, "I might be able to help you, but I cannot do a thing if you cover me with your salt tears."

Maple Parfait.

Allow a cup of maple syrup to come to a boil. Beat the yolks of four eggs and stir over them rapidly the hot syrup, being careful that they do not cook. Boil the mixture until it thickens, strain and let cool. Add one pint of cream and turn into the freezer to freeze.

Lemon Bouillon.

Boil soup meat until very tender and season with salt. Into each bouillon cup slice very fine one hard-boiled egg and three very thin slices of lemon. Strain the meat broth over these and serve hot or cold in jelly form.

Lettuce and Nut Salad.

Shred crisp lettuce leaves and place them in a cup made of a tender leaf of head lettuce. Place on each portion of salad a half-dozen English walnut meats broken in halves and cover with a generous portion of mayonnaise dressing, to which whipped cream has been added.

Lamb Stew With Peas.

Put the lamb and a quart of water into a stew pot. When half done season to taste and add green peas. Stew slowly and when the peas are about done season with mint and parsley chopped fine, allowing them to simmer until ready to serve.
